UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA UCPath

Expedited Pay through Pay Card

This option is offered for situations in which an employee needs to be paid within a day because they have not received their full payment on their scheduled pay cycle.

What is the "UCPath Pay Card" and how does it work?

The UCPath Pay Card is a Visa prepaid debit card (it is not a credit card). Plus ...

- When you sign up, payment outside of your regular pay cycle will be provided to you through a pay card.
- You can initiate transactions through your secret PIN code, signature or through bill pay.
- Like a typical debit card, the purchase amount is deducted from the amount of money available. Balance information is available through an App or website.
- Need more information about the pay card option? Click on Frequently Asked Questions.

Why Choose New UCPath Pay Card?

- Provides a faster way to receive pay when full payment has not been received on scheduled pay cycle.
- Rather than receiving a check through the USPS mail or a direct deposit to your account, your location will provide your pay through a pay card.

How You Sign Up to be paid through Pay Card:

1. Click on and review the Cardholder Agreement, Fee Schedule, and Privacy Policy documents.
2. Click on and review the Form Instructions, and then complete and sign the Pay Card Consent Form.
3. You must submit the signed consent form to your location payroll office at the time that they are submitting the request to pay you through a pay card.

If you have any additional questions or need other services, please consult your Berkeley regional payroll contact at https://regionalservices.berkeley.edu/home